new complexion and made Pennsylvania

A favorite for the title. Harvard led the field in qualifying men for the semifinals and finals of to-morrow with eleven athletes. But Pennsylvania, with then, must be regarded as far more serious contenders. So must California, which came here with a well balanced aggregation and qualified ten men, and Yale, which took fourth place with nine and appears to have an excelent chance.
Ninety-two athletes qualified in eleven events, heats and trials being held in all competitions except the one and two runs. Nineteen colleges were represented among the successful aspirants, a scattering of the preliminary laurels which is unprecedented and forecasts one of the hottest fights in the history of the intercollegiates. As we see the "dope," Pennsylvania should win, with Yale fighting it out with California for second place and the chances apparently favoring the Blue.

Stanislaus Zbyszko wrestled Joe Stecher again the other night. The first "ime that Stanny met Joe he only threw him once, but this time, being a little older and more experienced, he slammed him to the mat a couple of second place and the chances apparently favoring the Blue.

Princeton Out of It.

Princeton, which put up so gallant a struggle for the laurels last year and was beaten by Pennsylvania by only a point and a half, most certainly is out of the contest for the 1921 title. Like Cornell it qualified seven men, but the chances of the lithacans are far more impressive, as they may provide the winner of the mile in the person of C. G. Irish, as well as the winner of the two mile, for which N. P. Brown, winner of 1920, again is favored.

Though a few records were threatened under weather conditions which were fideal and on a track which was lightning fast, no new marks were set.

ARMY AND NAVY.

The Annapolis men gave their baseball team a great send off when it left the Academy for its game at West Point to-day. Any time that the soldiers and sailors play each other they furnish a battle that is full of color and strenuous effort.

THE LISTENING POST

Copyright, 1921, by The New York Herald. MISS ALEXA STIRLING.

The next amateur golf event on the other side of the water hazard in which the enthusiasts on this shore take a deep and fervent interest is the Women's Championship. In this Miss Alexa Stirling meets Miss Cecil Leitch in the first round, and if she can manage to defeat her will win so much glory that it won't make much difference what she does after that.

It is perhaps just as well that this hardest contest that she could draw should be the first in which Miss Stirling plays. Miss Stirling went to England early in March against the advice of many persons. They feared that she would lose rather than gain by being over there so long, taking the chance both of becoming over golfed and of finding that the climate did not agree with her. They may have been right.

The Dodgers scored two runs in the second inning on doubles by Koney and Myers, Kilduff's sacrifice and Ruiph Milier's fumble of Otto Miller's grounder. In the third the Phillies got a run on a pass, Olson's fumble and Grimes's bad throw.

a pass, Oison's tumble and Grimes's bauthrow.

Two more were scored by the Dodgers in the fourth on Kliduff's hit, Otto Miller's sacrifice and doubles by Oison and Johnston. One more run came in the fifth on George Smith's homer.

When the Phillies went to bat in their half of the fifth the Dodgers were leading by 5 to 1. The Phillies got right to work and scored two. Bruggy singled and Lee, batting for G. Smith, doubled. Bruggy scoring, Rawlings doubled and Lee crossed the plate.

Three singles bunched off Grimes gave the Phillies one more run in the sixth. In the seventh Meusel made his seventh circuit clout of the season, tiling the score.

Peckinpaugh, returning to his old-time post at the top of the batting order, made four singles in five times at bat, and it was no fault of his that all but one of them were wasted. Ruth could not hit for the circuit, but did weigh in with a couple of singles, one of them a with a couple of singles, one calculations of the man and paved the way to as many more. Even Waite Hoyt participated in the orgy of swat, the Yankee pitcher's triple being the outstanding feature of the second transfer.

the outstanding feature of the second inning rally.

Col. T. L. Huston joined the Yankees this morning, and announced that J. Franklin Baker had been sent to St. Vincent's Hospital, New York, to have his injured leg examined. Catcher Al De Vormer returned after a visit to "Bonesetter" Reese and reported that the Youngstown specialist had found nothing wrong with his arm or with Pitcher Bob Shawkey's.

Because of the fact that Zachary is a left handed pitcher, Manager Huggins sent Ping Bodle to centre in place of Chicken Hawks, and another change put Mike McNally on second instead of Johnny Mitchell, with Peckinpauch advancing from second place in the butting order to the lead off position. Mitchell's many errors at St. Louis were responsible for McNally's first appearance in the regular lineup, but events soon

Navy's Crew Challenge
Philadellphia, May 27.—Navy's challenge to Princeton for another race between the varsity eight oared crews of the two institutions cannot be accepted, according to John Fitzpatrick, assistant coach of the Princeton crews, who arrived here to-day for the American Henley Regatta on the Schuylkill River to-morrow. Princeton defeated the navy eight, Olympic champions, on Lake Carnegie three weeks ago
"There is not a possible chance of another race," said Fitzpatrick. That crew isn't even going to Poughkeepsie, The boys are behind in their studies, and we decided some time ago that the crew would not row again this season."
